Pre-filing and Post-filing License Renewal Announcement Reminder for New York and New Jersey TV, Class A TV, LPTV and TV Translator Stations

TV, Class A TV, LPTV and TV translator stations licensed to communities in New York and New Jersey should be receiving soon a postcard from the FCC reminding them that their license renewal applications must be filed by February 1, 2007.

Whether or not you soon receive the FCC's postcard, you should be alerted to the fact that television stations, Class A television stations, and locally-originating low power television stations licensed to communities in New York and New Jersey must begin broadcasting the first of four pre-filing renewal announcements on Friday, December 1, 2006. The remaining announcements must air on December 16, 2006, January 1, 2007, and January 16, 2007. For commercial stations, at least two of these four announcements must air between 6:00 pm and 11:00 pm. Locally-originating low power television stations must broadcast these announcements as close to the above schedule as their operating schedule permits. A sign board or slide showing the licensee's address and the Commission's Washington, DC address must be displayed while the pre-filing announcements are being broadcast. Noncommercial stations must air the announcements at the same times as commercial stations; however, noncommercial stations need not air any announcements in a month that the station does not operate. A noncommercial station that will not air some announcements because it is off the air must air the remaining announcements in the order listed above, i.e., the first two must air between 6:00 pm and 11:00 pm.

The text of the announcement is as follows:

On [date of last renewal grant], [call letters] was granted a license by the Federal Communications Commission to serve the public interest as a public trustee until June 1, 2007. [Stations which have not received a renewal grant since the filing of their previous renewal application should modify the foregoing to read: "(Call letters) is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission to serve the public interest as a public trustee."]

Our license will expire on June 1, 2007. We must file an application for renewal with the FCC by February 1, 2007. When filed, a copy of this application will be available for public inspection during our regular business hours. It contains information concerning this station's performance during the last [period of time covered by application – in most cases this is eight years, the length of a standard license term].

Individuals who wish to advise the FCC of facts relating to our renewal application and to whether this station has operated in the public interest should file comments and petitions with the Commission by May 1, 2007. Further information concerning the FCC's broadcast license renewal process is available at [address of location of station's public inspection file] or may be obtained from the FCC, Washington, DC 20554.

[Note: Locally-originating low power television stations must delete the language regarding the station public inspection file in the second to last paragraph of the announcement because those stations are not required to maintain such a file.]

Once the license renewal application has been filed, television, Class A and locally-originating low power television stations must broadcast six post-filing renewal announcements. These announcements must air on February 1, February 16, March 1, March 16, April 1 and April 16, 2007. At least three of these announcements must air between 6:00 pm and 11:00 pm. At least one announcement must air in each of the following time periods: between 9:00 am and 1:00 pm, between 1:00 pm and 5:00 pm, and between 5:00 pm and 7:00 pm. Noncommercial stations should air the announcements on the same schedule except in those circumstances described above in the second paragraph of this Special Bulletin. Locally-originating low power television stations must broadcast these announcements as close to the above schedule as their operating schedule permits. A sign board or slide showing the licensee's address and the Commission's Washington, DC address must be displayed while the post-filing announcements are being broadcast.

The text of the announcement is as follows:

On [date of last renewal grant], [call letters] was granted a license by the Federal Communications Commission to serve the public interest as a public trustee until June 1, 2007.

Our license will expire on June 1, 2007. We have filed an application for renewal with the FCC.

A copy of this application is available for public inspection during our regular business hours. It contains information concerning this station's performance during the last [period of time covered by application -- in most cases this is eight years].

Individuals who wish to advise the FCC of facts relating to our renewal application and to whether this station has operated in the public interest should file comments and petitions with the FCC by May 1, 2007.

Further information concerning the FCC's broadcast license renewal process is available at [address of location of station's public inspection file] or may be obtained from the FCC, Washington, DC 20554.

[Note: Again, locally-originating low power television stations must delete the language regarding the station public inspection file in the last paragraph of the announcement because those stations are not required to maintain such a file.]

Within seven days of the broadcast of the last post-filing announcement, that is, by April 23, 2007, television and Class A television station licensees should complete the attached Statement of Compliance and place it in the station's public inspection file. If a licensee discovers that it has missed broadcasting one of these announcements, the licensee should broadcast a make-up announcement as soon as possible and contact the firm for further advice.

Low power television stations that do not locally originate programming and TV translator stations are not required to broadcast pre-filing or post-filing announcements. However, upon filing a renewal application for such a station, the licensee must publish public notice of the filing in a local newspaper published or having circulation in the community served by the station. If there is no such newspaper, the licensee must determine an appropriate means of providing the required notice to the general public, such as posting it in the local post office or other public place. The notice must contain the name of the applicant, the community served by the station, the station's transmitter site, the station's output channel and power, a statement that the station engages in or intends to engage in rebroadcasting of another station, including the call letters, location and channel of operation of the station(s) rebroadcast, the date the application was filed, and a statement which advises that the application is for renewal of license and invites comment from individuals who wish to advise the FCC of facts relating to the renewal application and whether the station has operated in the public interest. After publication of the notice, the licensee should complete and execute a Statement of Compliance regarding that publication.

While low power television station and TV translator licensees are not required to keep a public inspection file, they are required to maintain a station records file available to an FCC representative which contains their current authorization and copies of all FCC filings and correspondence with the Commission and thus should place the completed Statement of Compliance in their station file. Pages 5 and 6 of this Special Bulletin provide information for stations to comply with the requirements noted above.
